

1. Reflecting on your teaching, scholarly and artistic work, and service, please describe one thing from the 2023-24 academic year you want to celebrate.

students to value differences and interact constructively with a diversity of people, spaces, situations, and ideas and (ii) demonstrating continued self-reflection and growth as an inclusive instructor. Please list up to three starred (*) items related to your work toward inclusive excellence in teaching.

3. Name other innovations or significant changes in your teaching this academic year, if applicable,

4. Please list the number of honors students you worked with this academic year, and in what set.

5. If you engaged in significant teaching activities beyond the standard 3 hours of class time per course, please describe briefly.

6. Please briefly describe any support, mentoring, or advising of Bowdoin students outside of your formal advising duties.

Scholarly and Creative Activities (March 1, 2023 - March 1, 2024)

Contributions to the College Community (2023-24 academic year)

14. College service. Please note contributions to the College during this academic year beyond department chair/program director service and GFA-appointed or elected committee service, such as advising of student organizations; participation in College House activities; involvement in campus