ACADEMIC APPAREL

The formal academic attire that distinguishes the faculty and graduates at academic ceremonies is a symbol that once pertained to the frontiers of the past, to the roots of academic institutions, and is at the same time a symbol of union among contemporary academic institutions.

The gown, cap, and hood, which you find certain everywhere today, are worn on our city streets, are ordinary to the ordinary people of our medieval ancestors. The gown is derived in essence according to the rank and estate of the owner, and the hood is a distinctive adjunct of the benedictine order, the head, or arm of the mantle. Many of the medieval universities had their own distinctive colors, or emblems, the masters of arts had their own distinctive dress.
